I am currently forcefully tagged to a project without my concent and I was forced by RMG on basis that I am not working 9 hrs in office so strict action will be taken or get into this project. Remember I was not in bench, I was tagged even before my othe project got end dated. I took it to HR and she gave me warning in email for not working 9 hrs and didn't take action on force pulled into project. -

I want to move from accenture to TCS , working from home but quite hectic. Aiming to chill and retire. Hike -around 25% on fix. ctc offered by tcs - 39.5 lpa(including performance) cctc -31 (including bonus)... is it worth a move for retirement ? yoe~10 also is TCS safe now ? planning to just go 4-5 hours office daily. no hikes / growth in accenture as well..

Me and my husband both work in TCS in different projects. He is working here since 6 years and I will complete my 2 years in TCS in coming May. He got a better opportunity in another MNC in Bangalore. I want to move with him there. I want to know if I can get a transfer from TCS Kolkata to Bangalore? Or will there be any issues? Currently there is one person working from BLR location of my project but he is much senior than me. Will TCS consider me to relocate with my husband?

So Apparently As soon as I told my manager that I have and offer. He asked me not to put resignation and said I am committing if things go as we are planning we will give LWD as per my informed date. I have an 25LPA offer from Accenture. TCS is committing to matching it and somehow team identified an onsite project in EU. Client approval came. Then want me to initiate for visa in upcoming week. I told I will do once I receive commitment on retention from HR What should I Do?
